

THE INVISIBLE PORCUPINE MAN OF SEDONA, ARIZONA

By Paul Dale Roberts, Halo Paranormal Investigations

Just like Mount Shasta or the Skinwalker Ranch, Sedona is a place that is considered mystical. People have made claims that they have seen angels, UFOs, ghosts, shadow people, and more in Sedona. Many people with New Age beliefs flock to Sedona seeking enlightenment. A total of 3.5 million visitors stop at Sedona on a daily basis.

I believe there are many mystical centers on Earth. Mount Shasta, Sedona, the Pyramids of Giza, Mount Shasta, the Bermuda Triangle – the list goes on and on. These powerful places are all connected by ley lines and can manifest vortexes, dimensional rifts into otherworldly domains.

Perhaps we can even find a Stargate at a place like Sedona. Many healers, psychics, artists, and spiritualists think of Sedona as a spiritual mecca. People believe they can be empowered at Sedona. They feel they can be healed and rejuvenated.

They feel Sedona will stimulate their senses. They feel that they will become in tune with their sixth sense. I have also heard that Sedona opens the third eye of awareness. Plus, Sedona is absolutely gorgeous. It has beautiful red rock scenery and evergreen vegetation.

People who visit Sedona are akin to people who visit Fatima. They wish for a miracle, they hope to be healed, they seek spiritual awareness. Michelle of Illinois claims to once have witnessed a large glowing globe land in Sedona. She saw three angelic beings depart from the globe. Later, the angelic beings reentered the globe and then flew off at astronomical speeds.

Many people have claimed to have seen portals open up in and around Sedona. Some of these people claim they have seen strange beings walk out of the portals. Dan Stivers claims to have seen a flying snake go into a portal and then the portal closed up and vanished.

Sedona is a strange place that warrants investigation.

Now let me share with you an unusual phone to HPI's paranormal hotline with regard to Sedona ...

Paul: How can I help you?

Rudy: I just want to get your opinion on something. Or maybe you know something about this. I went to Sedona, Arizona, with my wife. We traveled down from [omitted at the request of caller] ... There was one night while I was up there, I was attacked by something invisible. I felt like something was shooting me with quills. My body had red blotch marks all over.

I felt like I was attacked by an invisible porcupine. My wife saw the red marks. One mark even looked like it was bleeding. I was in extreme pain for a while. The very next day, the red marks were gone. I have no idea what attacked me. What do you know about Sedona or have you heard about any attack like this?

Paul: Rudy, the only thing I actually know about Sedona is that New Age people are really attracted to Sedona because some feel that there are vortexes in and around this area. These vortexes may be the entry and exit points for UFOs. Then there is Bell Rock, where mystics think of this as a toning device to balance energies.

Rudy: Yes, I saw Bell Rock.

Paul: And I guess Miller House is supposed to be extremely haunted. It was owned by an actress named Miller.

Rudy: Ann Miller, and she thought it was haunted by an Indian and some other spirits. But, I don't think I was attacked by a ghost.

Paul: Why?

Rudy: I was hit by quill attacks. I never been hit by a porcupine, but I can imagine that is how it would feel.

And I got hit twice. Sedona is plain ... weird. Have you heard any reports of an invisible porcupine?

Paul: No. After the attack, did you see anything?

"I saw a seven-foot shadow figure move between some rocks after the attack."

Rudy: I thought I saw a seven-foot shadow figure move between some rocks after the attack.

Paul: Wow! Did your wife see it too?

Rudy: No.

Paul: Did you experience anything else paranormal?

Rudy: No.

Paul: In your whole life, have you experienced anything paranormal?

Rudy: No.

Paul: How about your wife?

Rudy: She said her dad once saw a UFO in Tulsa.

Paul: Do you still have pain from the attack?

Rudy: No, not at all. ♦
